

Paul's Theology

Lesson 54

Lord's Supper

Biblical-Literacy.com

© Copyright 2009 by W. Mark Lanier. Permission hereby granted to reprint this document in its entirety without change, with reference given, and not for financial profit.

HOUSTON★CHRONICLE

WWW.CHRON.COM

SUNDAY DECEMBER 13, 180 AD

 Vol. 1 2 shekels

Caesar Commudus invents new salad dressing

- Salad based on kos lettuce, becomes rage in Rome

WASHINGTON — White tablecloths, polished silverware and candlelight are the tools of a cunning suitor. But when found in a dining room in the House of Representatives, they signal high politics rather than romantic intentions.

The elegant atmosphere is what Rep. John Shadegg of Arizona, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, is using to help build agreement among his GOP colleagues on an issue where there is little: immigration reform.

"I want people to realize that there is more that holds us together than pulls us apart," he said.

Now, the elements of a major policy push are coming together for the first time since Congress last passed a comprehensive immigration overhaul in 1986.

President Bush has put immigration near the top of a list of goals and is re-entering the debate after backing off when a guest-worker proposal he announced in January 2004 was roundly criticized.

But it will take more than what Shadegg calls "unlucky" to bridge the divisions that split Republicans when it comes to many see as a dangerous immigration system.

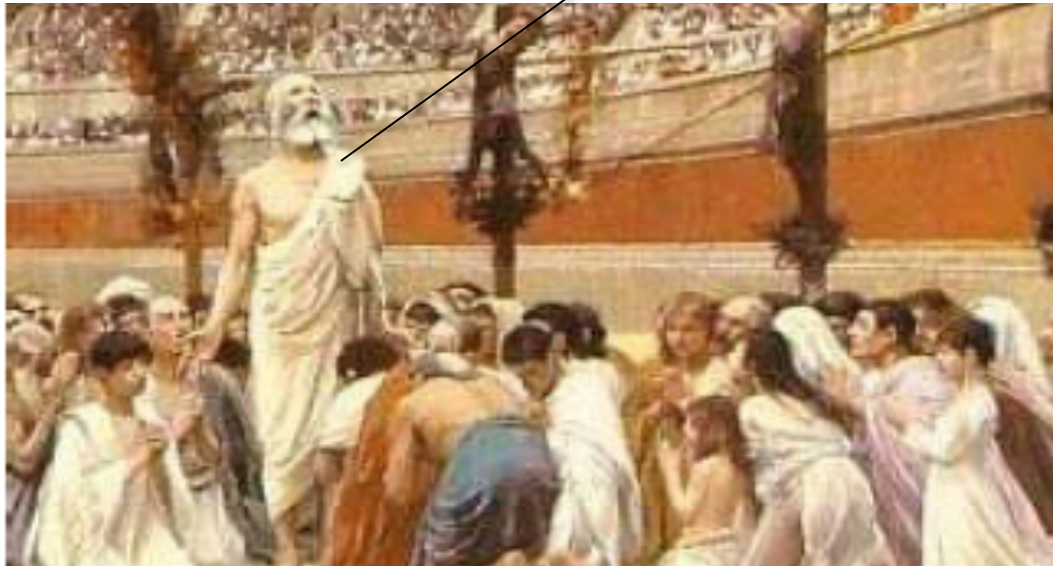

Immigration policies stress everywhere, and in Houston. It's one of 31 cities. Please see B08B

A KINGDOM OF GOLD TO

Honor to Caesar as Caesar, but fear to God

ACTS OF THE SCILLITAN MARTYRS

- Dio Cassius warns Empire on Decline

By MARK CARREAU
HOUSTON CHRONICLE

Concerned that two strips of filler dangling from Discovery's underside could cause overheating during re-entry, NASA managers said Sunday they might ask the ship's crew to remove or trim the material.

The task could be carried out during a third spacewalk by astronauts Steve Robinson and Sotchi Noguchi planned for Wednesday or become the focus of an unscheduled fourth walk.

Mission managers planned to finish their assessment of the risk posed by the protrusions near Discovery's nose today.

The dangling pieces of fabric were spotted in photographed to dock.

One piece of fiber sticks out from the shuttle's belly by about 1.1 inch. The other protrudes by about nine-tenths of an inch.

Spacewalkers would be asked to take action if engineers determine that the excess fiber would disturb the high-temperature airflow enough to dangerously heat up Discovery's belly during its Aug. 8 re-entry and landing.

NASA's Wayne Hale, the mission management team chairman,

The pieces of hanging fabric are part of 6-inch, fire-retardant strips, or "gap fillers," that are glued between each of the black silica tiles to protect the shuttle's underside from frictional heating as the spacecraft glides back into Earth's atmosphere.

The protrusions are unrelated to the foam seen flying off

Extra Video, interactive multimedia and a blog at chron.com/rtf

HOUSTON★CHRONICLE

WWW.CHRON.COM

SUNDAY DECEMBER 13, 180 AD

 Vol. 1 2 shekels

Caesar Commudus invents new salad dressing

- Salad based on kos lettuce, becomes rage in Rome

WASHINGTON — White tablecloths, polished silverware and candlelight are the tools of a cunning suitor. But when found in a dining room in the House of Representatives, they signal high politics rather than romantic intentions.

The elegant atmosphere is what Rep. John Shadegg of Arizona, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, is using to help build agreement among his GOP colleagues on an issue where there is little: immigration reform.

"I want people to realize that there is more that holds us together than pulls us apart," he said.

Now, the elements of a major policy push are coming together for the first time since Congress last passed a comprehensive immigration overhaul in 1986.

President Bush has put immigration near the top of a list of goals and is re-entering the debate after backing off when a guest-worker proposal he announced in January 2004 was roundly criticized.

But it will take more than what Shadegg calls "unlucky" to bridge the divisions that split Republicans when it comes to many see as a dangerous immigration system.

Immigration policies stress everywhere, and in Houston. It's one of 31 cities. Please see B01B.

A KINGDOM OF GOLD TO

Martyrs carried letters of "Paul, a just man"

ACTS OF THE SCILLITAN MARTYRS

- Dio Cassius warns Empire on Decline

By MARK CARREAU
HOUSTON CHRONICLE

Concerned that two strips of filler dangling from Discovery's underside could cause overheating during re-entry, NASA managers said Sunday they might ask the ship's crew to remove or trim the material.

The task could be carried out during a third spacewalk by astronauts Sore Robinson and Sotchi Noguchi planned for Wednesday or become the focus of an unscheduled fourth walk.

Mission managers planned to finish their assessment of the risk posed by the protrusions near Discovery's nose today.

The dangling pieces of fabric were spotted in photographed to dock.

One piece of fiber sticks out from the shuttle's belly by about 1.1 inch. The other protrudes by about nine-tenths of an inch.

Spacewalkers would be asked to take action if engineers determine that the excess fiber would disturb the high-temperature airflow enough to dangerously heat up Discovery's belly during its Aug. 8 re-entry and landing.

NASA's Wayne Hale, the mission management team chairman,

The pieces of hanging fabric are part of 6-inch, fire-retardant strips, or "gap fillers," that are glued between each of the black silica tiles to protect the shuttle's underside from frictional heating as the spacecraft glides back into Earth's atmosphere.

The protrusions are unrelated to the foam seen flying off

Extra video, interactive multimedia and a blog at chron.com/rtf

HOUSTON★CHRONICLE

WWW.CHRON.COM

SUNDAY DECEMBER 13, 180 AD

 Vol. 1 2 shekels

Caesar Commudus invents new salad dressing

- Salad based on kos lettuce, becomes rage in Rome

WASHINGTON — White tablecloths, polished silverware and candlelight are the tools of a cunning suitor. But when found in a dining room in the House of Representatives, they signal high politics rather than romantic intentions.

The elegant atmosphere is what Rep. John Shadegg of Arizona, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, is using to help build agreement among his GOP colleagues on an issue where there is little: immigration reform.

"I want people to realize that there is more that holds us together than pulls us apart," he said.

Now, the elements of a major policy push are coming together for the first time since Congress last passed a comprehensive immigration overhaul in 1986.

President Bush has put immigration near the top of a list of goals and is re-entering the debate after backing off when a guest-worker proposal he announced in January 2004 was roundly criticized.

But it will take more than what Shadegg calls "unlucky" to bridge the divisions that split Republicans when it comes to many see as a dangerous immigration system.

Immigration policies stress everywhere, and in Houston. It's one of 31 cities. Please see B01B.

A KINGDOM OF GOLD TO

Secret meetings
rumored cannibalistic

ACTS OF THE SCILLITAN MARTYRS

- Dio Cassius warns Empire on Decline

By MARK CARREAU
HOUSTON CHRONICLE

Concerned that two strips of filler dangling from Discovery's underside could cause overheating during re-entry, NASA managers said Sunday they might ask the ship's crew to remove or trim the material.

The task could be carried out during a third spacewalk by astronauts Steve Robinson and Sotchi Noguchi planned for Wednesday or become the focus of an unscheduled fourth walk.

Mission managers planned to finish their assessment of the risk posed by the protrusions near Discovery's nose today.

The dangling pieces of fabric were spotted in photographed to dock.

One piece of fiber sticks out from the shuttle's belly by about 1.1 inch. The other protrudes by about nine-tenths of an inch.

Spacewalkers would be asked to take action if engineers determine that the excess fiber would disturb the high-temperature airflow enough to dangerously heat up Discovery's belly during its Aug. 8 re-entry and landing, said NASA's

Wayne Hale, the mission management team chairman.

The pieces of hanging fabric are part of 6-inch, fire-retardant strips, or "gap fillers," that are glued between each of the black silica tiles to protect the shuttle's underside from frictional heating as the spacecraft glides back into Earth's atmosphere.

The protrusions are unrelated to the foam seen flying off

Extra video, interactive multimedia and a blog at chron.com/rtf

What did the letters of Paul say?

Remember Paul's Jewish Heritage

Pesach
(Passover)

Hag ha-Matzot (Feast of unleavened bread)

Korban Pesach
(Paschal lamb)

Jerusalem celebrated in special ways

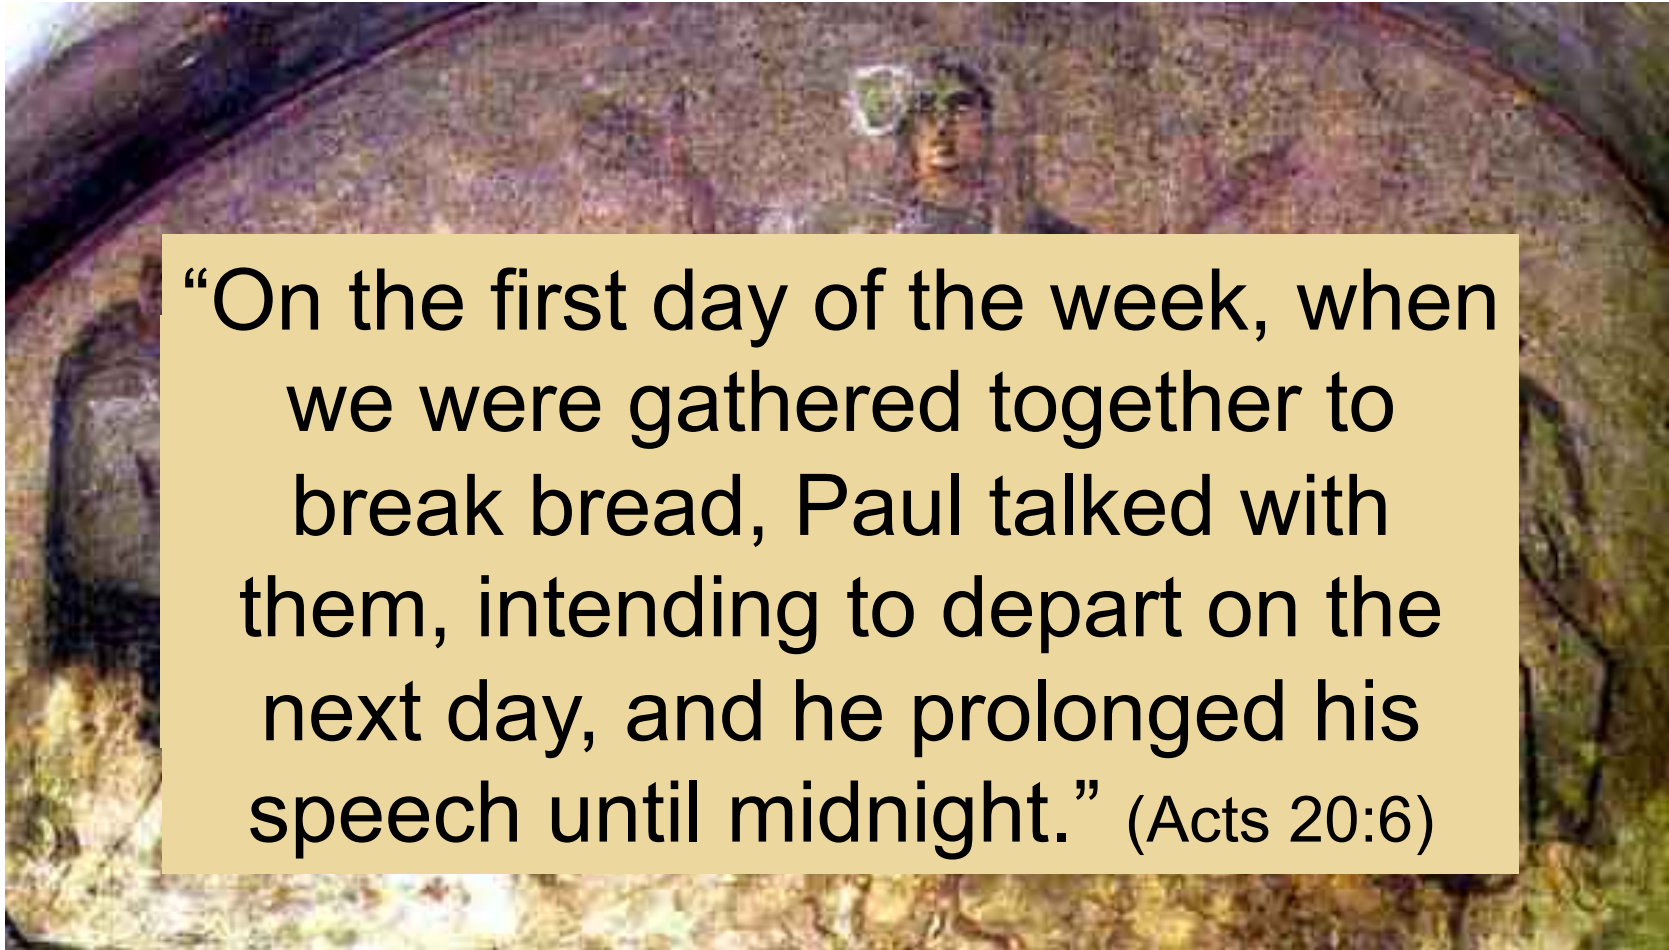

THE PASSOVER: SLAYING THE PASCHAL LAMB.—Num. ix.

Passover gave birth to the Lord's Supper

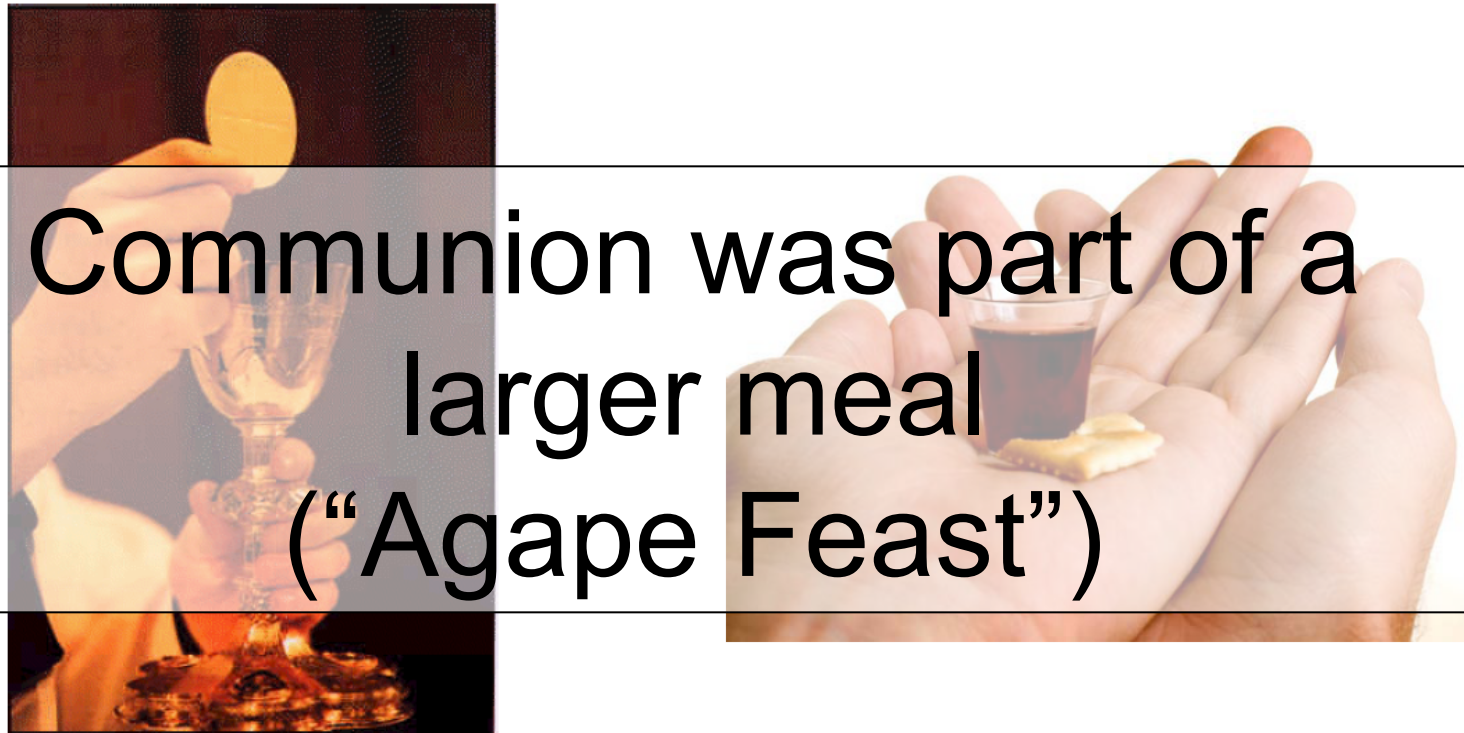

The early church regularly “broke bread”

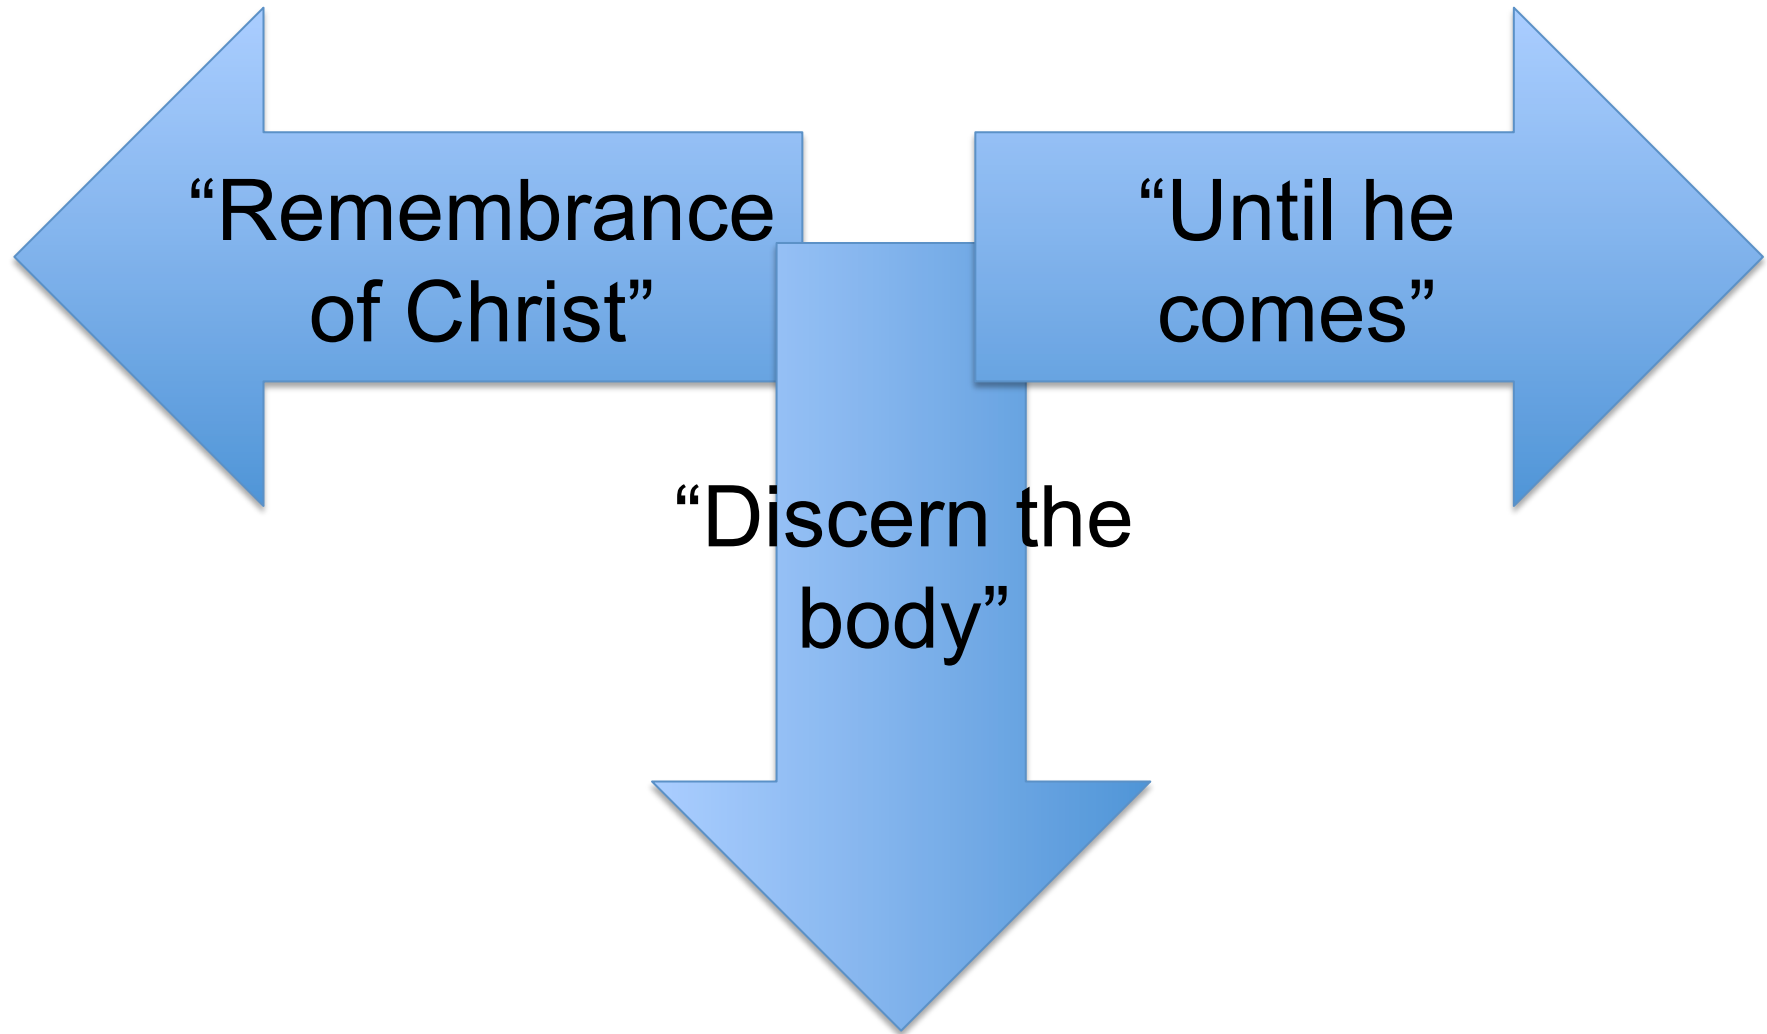

What did the letters of Paul say?

Realize the context (Sitz im Leben)

Paul points in 3 directions

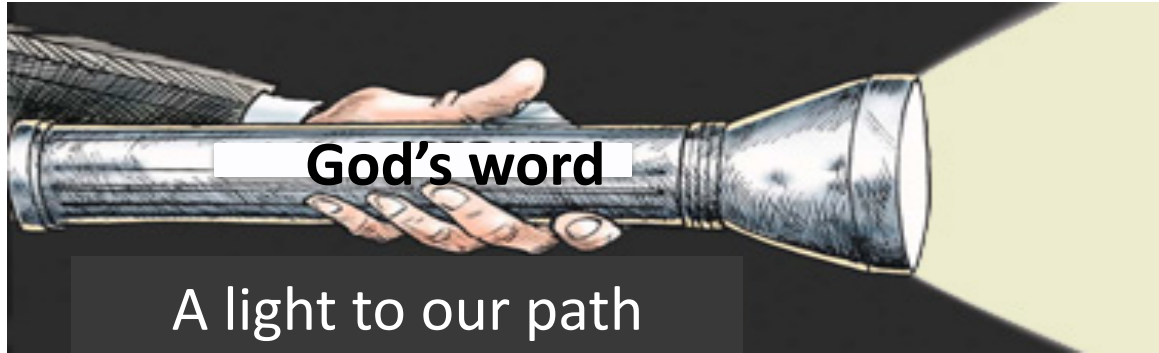

The Lord's Supper was open to abuse

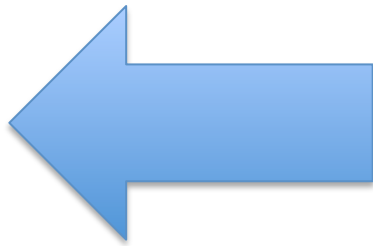

Our Church Family

Gifts?
Relationships?
Eschatology?

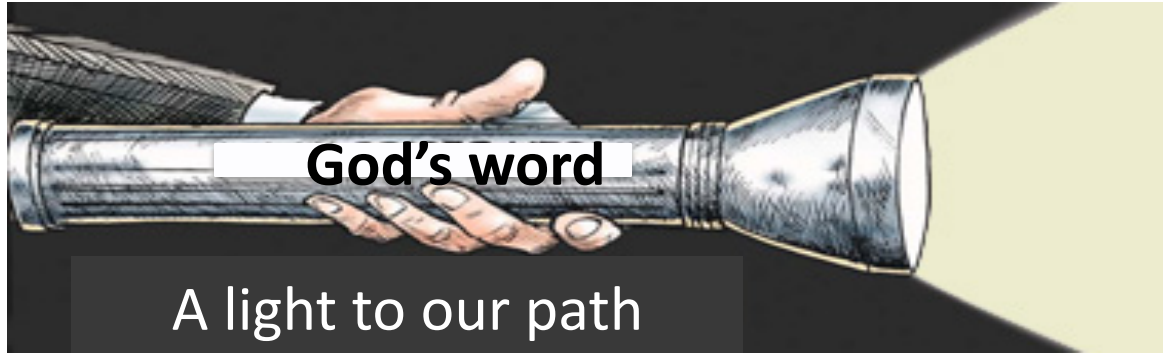

Points for Home

“Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of me”

(1 Cor. 11:25)

Let us do so regularly

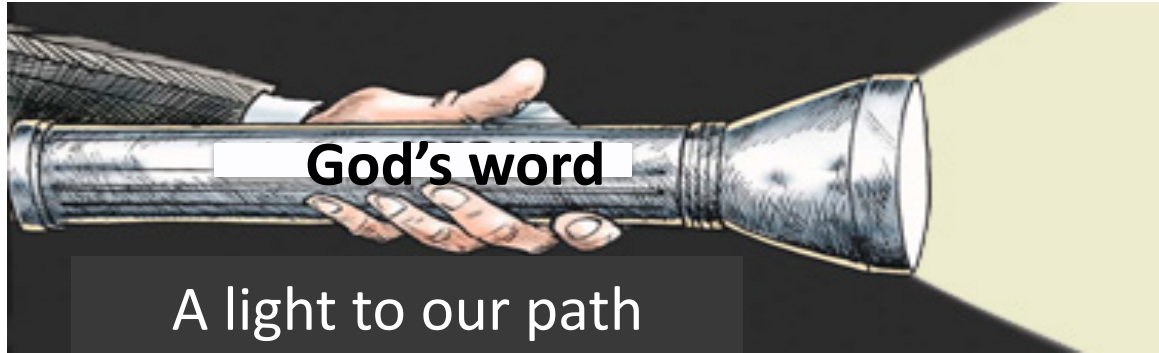

Points for Home

“Let a person examine himself”

(1 Cor. 11:28)

Where are you today?

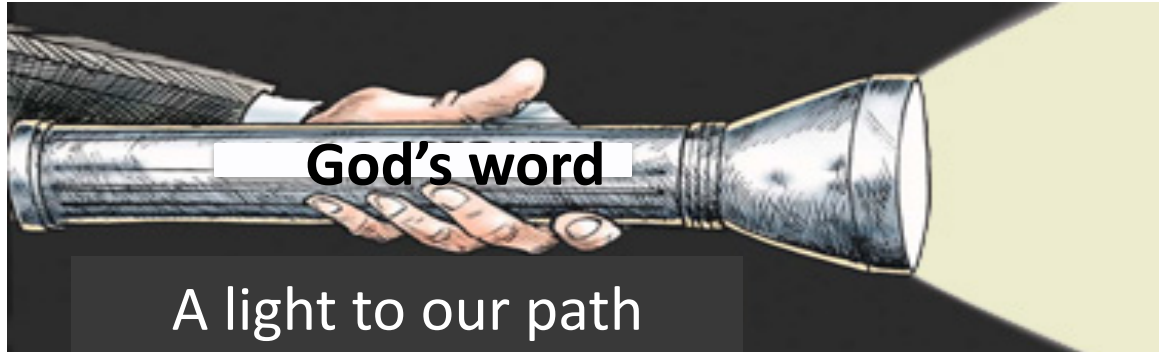

Points for Home

"You proclaim the Lord's death until he comes"

(1 Cor. 11:29)

Come quickly, Lord Jesus!

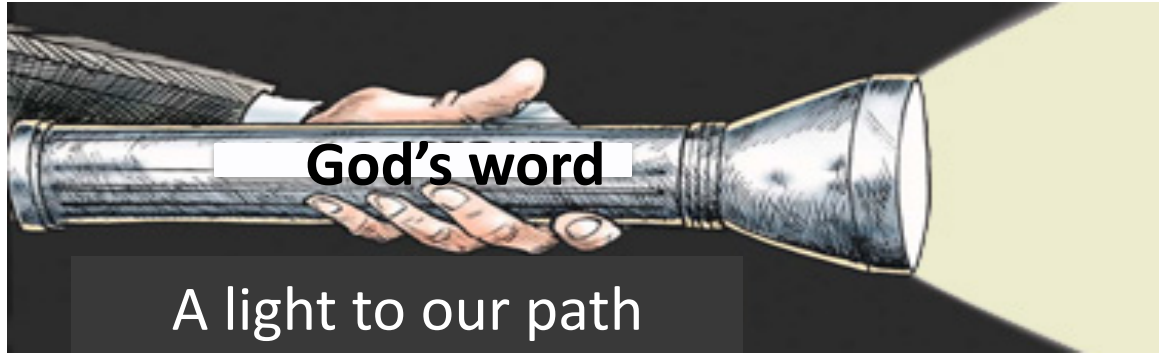

Points for Home

“As many of you as were baptized into Christ have put on Christ”

(Gal. 3:27)

You look GOOD!

Points for Home

“One Lord, one faith, one baptism”

(Eph. 4:5)

A good place to look back!